

Programme support for leaders

On-line Scouting

This aide memoire is designed to summarise the support that is available to leaders to help deliver on-line/remote Scouting.

- A free Zoom account is available for all Groups. Zoom account sign up
- The national Scouts.org.uk website contains a large range of on-line programme ideas Scouts at home. In particular leaders might like to consider using the six week Press-play-and-go programme or the Activities section.
- The Steps towards a Safe Return section of the Berkshire Scouts website provides a wide range of support materials including a series of programmes on a plate.
- The Berkshire Scouts @home Challenge was set in September 2020 and to date circa 500 young people have achieved the award.
- The Berkshire Scouts International Join In Award and Project Africa global awareness programme have a range of activities suitable for on-line programmes.
- Social media is a good source of information and programme ideas, in particular the 1st Virtual Scout Group Facebook page has a large following. For a more local set of ideas, leaders should join the County Facebook forums. Beaver Leaders in Berkshire, Cub Leaders in Berkshire, Scout Leaders in Berkshire, Explorer Scout Leaders in Berkshire
- For those leaders wanting to share the load, why not buddy up with other local sections. If you are not confident delivering a session on-line, consider approaching other sections who are active and ask to join them. If you want some tips on keeping a good buzz around your on-line meetings this is a useful read Creating a buzz around your online meetings
- There are plenty of external organisations happy to help run sessions for you. Berkshire Scouts have set up a partnership with Age UK, for example, and they will run 'dementia friends' sessions on-line. Similarly, you could ask a 'STEM' ambassador to run a science evening for you. Details of both ideas are on the Steps towards a Safe Return section of the Berkshire Scouts website.
- Flexibility is the name of the game. Adapting the programme during coronavirus crisis

Staying safe Don't forget that usual Scouting rules apply to on-line activities and it is important to consider the safety of our young people at all times Staying safe online
